Dear Families:

Did you know that today is U.S. National Twilight Zone Day? The Twilight Zone was a TV show that ran from 1959-1964. It was known for its eerie stories, plot twists, and of course, theme song.

The Twilight Zone is one of my favorite TV shows; in fact, I used to use it often in the classroom to teach students about different literary elements, including foreshadowing, setting, characterization, mood and especially theme. Although all of the episodes were usually scary and mysterious, they shared a lesson with the audience. There was always something to learn.

Since tomorrow is our Lung Force Dress Down Day, it's appropriate to share with you an episode of The Twilight Zone entitled "Midnight Sun." In the episode, Earth has strayed from orbit and is moving closer and closer to the sun, and the entire planet is getting hotter and hotter. It's clear that Earth will eventually become uninhabitable. The protagonist, Lois, attempts to survive the heat inside of her apartment as her landlady succumbs to heat stroke. In true Twilight Zone fashion, Lois then wakes up to realize that she had been having a nightmare brought on by a high fever. Lois' dream showed an exaggerated version of something that is a distinct possibility...climate change.

The American Lung Association's Lung Force, "unites women and their loved ones across the country to stand together against lung cancer and for lung health." Of course, an essential component of lung health is clean air.

Thank you for your support of this great cause. Through their generosity, our students are bringing awareness to lung health and clean air. Together we will ensure that climate change and pollution are only a nightmare!

Sincerely,

Mr. Mark Wilson

Principal
